FLIES INTO FOG AND DISAPPEARS

FATE OF CECIL GRACE IS UNKNOWN—MANY ARE IN SEARCH FOR HIM

London, Dec. 23.—With the approach of midwinter and no tidings yet of Cecil B. Grace, the intrepid young aviator who disappeared Thursday afternoon while essaying a flight from Calais to Dover in an aeroplane, the belief generally prevails in London that the old North Sea had somewhere in its turbulent breast the story of the tragedy.

Every nook and cranny on land and on shore where it is thought young Grace might have landed, was searched today unavailingly, the boats that churned the channel and portions of the North Sea on the lookout for the youth or wreckage of his machine, likewise reported that their search had been in vain.

Grace carried with him petrol sufficient for a flight of about five hours. His biplane was not fitted with pontoons. Grace wore a cork jacket, but in case of a fall into the water he would have been encumbered by his heavy furlined top boots. The general belief is that it would be impossible for his machine to float for any great length of time, and unless the aviator was rescued by a ship bound for distant port, there is slender hope that he escaped death in the sea.

A great fleet of motor cars went out all night searching every nook of the east coast of England, while warships scattered along the shores and dotting the North Sea, swept the waters with wireless inquiry concerning the airman. The futile efforts were continued today.

Grace went out for the Baron DeForrest prize of $20,000 offered to the British aviator who in a British made aeroplane, shall cover the greatest distance, including the passage of the English channel during the present year.

TURRET OF MAINE TOWED TO SHORE

Havanna, Dec. 23.—The top forward turret of the old Battleship Maine, which was located on yesterday, was towed ashore today. The work of scraping off the barnacles for an examination has been begun.

It is believed that some light may be thrown on the cause of the explosion.

Mr. Lee, agent for "Smart Set" which will be at the Elks theatre, on the 2 of January, was here today.

Ollie Strickland left this afternoon for a visit to Clio.

IS TRYING TO OUTWALK DEATH

New Orleans, Dec. 23.—Walking, walking, always walking, James Claxton, aged 28 years, of Waterville, Maine, arrived in New Orleans Thursday, walking in his race with death. And he bids fair to outwalk the grim spectre.

Claxton has an extraordinary history in his fight against the ravages of tuberculosis. A year ago, his physician told him that he must die and that no medicine would ever do him any good. Determined that he would live if there was any way to accomplish it, Claxton bade his relatives good bye, and eight months ago started out to walk to the Pacific coast and back, a big undertaking for a well man. Never since that time has this man who is battling with death, slept beneath a roof or in a bed. Rain or shine, wind or snow, he has remained in the open breathing the fresh air, sleeping under the bushes with the earth for his bed and the sky for his coverlet.

From town to town, hamlet to hamlet, city to city, he has trudged. At first he could walk but a few miles without being completely exhausted. Now he does long journeys and has a ruddy glow in his cheeks instead of the hectic flush that was there before.

He has gained in weight from 130 to 165 pounds and is still getting heavier. Claxton wears light weight clothes, carries a cane and a small satchel and lives on eggs, vegetables and pure milk.

"I will beat the game yet," he said, "and I will outwalk death, or I will die in the open fighting to the last breath."

HORSE BEATS AUTO ONCE

Although an auto is considered superior to a horse, as to which is the best was proven in Dothan this morning when a horse became frightened on West Main street and came through town at a break-neck speed. He ran into a hack with the light Jersey wagon to which he was hitched and earned away one of the side lights from the vehicle, but the climax of his little farce came when the old style, four wheeled conveyance became connected with a big White Star touring car. The horse pulled harder than ever when he realized that this attempt to become entangled with his rival was successful, and he pulled the big tourer right along with him as if it had been driven by Barney Oldfield. A large crowd watched the performance with interest, and as soon as the horse had pulled behind him his greatest earthly rival, considered his superior in every way, he quietly stopped and waited for his lord and master. No damage was done.

Many of the school teachers have gone home for the holidays.

PARI STRICKLAND IS PAROLED

Montgomery, Dec. 23.—(Special to the Eagle)—Pari M. Strickland, who was convicted in Houston circuit court in 1907 of murder and sentenced to twenty-five years servitude for the state, received the benefit of Governor Comer's good will by receiving executive clemency.

It will be remembered that Strickland was charged with killing his uncle in Houston county. The case in its day created quite a sensation. It was later appealed to the Supreme Court, which affirmed the decision of the lower court.

IS IT A FLING AT DOTHAN?

Montgomery, Dec. 23.—(Special to the Eagle)—"I do not want to be placed in the same class with the Dothan people. I always regretter from Atlanta." Such was the utterance of Mr. George H. Purvis, traffic manager of the Atlanta and St. Andrews Bay Railroad, Thursday night at the Gay-Teague hotel, when he was introduced to Prof. C. M. Howard, by a native Wiregrassian.

The introducer informed Mr. Howard, by way of introduction, that Mr. Purvis was from Dothan, thereupon he gave vent to the above assertion.

Let it be a clean stocking, and a long one. Better get mamma's or big sis'.

The hot politics of the state of don't hold up, although it is time to hang up stockings.

The roads will be awful bad on Santa, and it is hoped that another year will see him coming on an airship.

We will print no paper Monday, but do like the other business houses, shut up and take a day off.

Now if the fireworks are held down during the holidays, the people will be better prepared for them later.

Some of the blind tigers pulled the bandage off, and the crowds hung around them like they did the dispensary, in the old days.

About all of the buying for this rush is over, and within a week, the garbage cans will hold most of the toys and gimcracks.

This paper is a little short for the crew got off early this evening to negotiate for a piece of pork chops. We failed to take our "shop early" advice.

Yesterday was a severe test on our streets. Many people were in town, and the muddiest places found were on the sidewalks, where some of the paving hadn't been finished.

In Seattle the other day the courts got busy and granted thirty-three divorces in three hours. The court was evidently imbued with the shop early idea, knowing that those people wanted to hurry on home and buy another license for the Christmas holidays.

Oklahoma shows that it is a new state, for it has gone on record as favoring Bryan in 1912. Bryan is alright, and has always been, but the trouble is, he can't make enough people see it that way. We are adopting many of the things he favored, and was defeated for, but he can never be president.

Just as soon as we get down to business next week, and the week after, and get the sour taste out of our mouths, about Christmas bills and taxes, we should turn out and clean up the business district of the town and keep it cleaned up. The city has bought a street sweeper, and when it gets to work, it will be but a little job to keep the streets in good shape.

Peary has agreed to submit his proofs of the arctic exploration, but he thinks that he ought to be made a rear admiral, or something in lieu of such effort. The world is just about in the right humor to put the skids under Peary, too, if his bill of lading isn't first class in every particular. In fact, the world wouldn't mind seeing him proved a fakir. We may have to listen to a statement from Lieutenant Peary about his getting sick, and weary, and his mind playing him a trick.

Dr. Cook says he believes he believes he reached the north pole. Lieutenant Peary says he is fully of the opinion that he himself reached the pole. The difference is, that Peary has been trying, at the expense of the government, for twenty-five years, while Cook has tried it a time or two at his own expense. If there is any way to settle the matter, we hope it will be settled, else, ship both of these two characters out of the country.

Babies Coming South.

New York has sent another car load of babies South. This time, they went to the stockless towns of Houston, Galveston, and San Antonio, Texas, where one would suppose that the output of babies was equal to the demands.

All of the little fellows were three years old, or less, and came from the New York Foundling Home, a place where the surplus babies are sent.

This is a terrible reputation for New York, or any other city to have, of not being able to take care of the little ones, and provide homes among people who will appreciate babies. It is a good thing that such a city has a place to put them, when they are picked up out of ash barrels, and the front steps of homes, but it does look like that enough people in New York could be found who would want the little fellows.

Texas is big hearted anyhow, and thinks to push along its population by borrowing babies, which isn't so bad, if they haven't enough of its own.

It was last summer, or spring, that a car load of babies went to New Orleans, from New York.

The South is big enough to take them, and provide homes for them. They will make useful men and women, and good Democrats.

Sings of Prosperity.

It is perfectly scandalous how the papers of Alabama, especially the weeklies, are displaying signs of prosperity.

A great number of them have come out this week with handsome Santa Claus covers, and the publishers of these papers would not be spending this extra money unless they could afford it.

You can't tell us; the papers of this state are better financial condition than they have been at any time in the past.

Since every other business that people work at is picking up, there is no reason why the newspaper business shouldn't show signs of prosperity.

It has always been a drawback to the newspaper business, that it had so many men identified with it, who were incompetent to manage the financial end of it.

There is no trouble in finding a man who can write things for the paper. There is but little trouble in finding a good printer, or foreman, who will see that the paper is put up in good shape, but there is much trouble when you go to look for a man with some of the other qualifications, and who possesses tact of looking after the business end of the paper.

The thing that has hurt the newspaper business in the weekly field, is the number of people who are attacked by the writers' itch, and jump into the business with no knowledge of how the paper ought to be run so that it will pay its bills. They feel like that if some cracking good editorials are printed each week that the people will come right in and give support. But it takes something else. It takes a man who can figure on advertising, and collect it; a man who can figure on job printing so that a profit will show up to the office, and then get the money for the job; it takes a man who will look out for the expenses, and see that they are not more than the cost. Few men possess these qualifications, and therein lies the many failures.

In another column of this paper is a news item from Montgomery, which quotes Mr. G. H. Purvis, as saying that he doesn't want to be placed in the same class with Dothan people, but that he always registers from Atlanta. If this be his sentiments, then Dothan is grateful. But by being placed in the Dothan class, one might be heard from occasionally, where the competition is not so keen, but when one registers from Atlanta, it amounts to nothing—too many more like 'em. But the wires must have got tangled, for Mr. Purvis is trying to make a railroad proposition pay, that is dependent upon Dothan for its business, in a great measure. He is an important official of the road, and being a representative of the road, it is through him, and such officials, that the public gets its impression of the road, whether good or bad. He is considered a good railroad man, but if he is quoted correctly, he needs to spend more time in Atlanta.

Pattie Barnes, clerk at the Martin, left this morning for his home in Aycock, Ga., where he will spend the holidays.

A. M. Burts, a well known cotton man of Headland, is here today.

J. A. Alston, of Millville, Fla., spent last night in the city on business.

J. K. Harris returned yesterday afternoon from Geneva.

Jim Parker, of Fort Gaines, Ga., is among the familiar traveling men in the city today.

Homes Needed In Dothan

There is an alarming scarcity of homes in Dothan just at this time and the man who will build a number of houses to rent at from $12.50 to $15 a month will not only make a most profitable investment for himself, but will really be a public benefactor. We have had a dozen inquires during the past week for homes of this class.

In this connection we have for sale several pieces of vacant property close in at prices low enough to warrant the building of houses to cost from $1,000 to $1,200. For instance, we are offering 270 feet east front two blocks west of the New High School building and the same distance from West Main Street, in an all white neighborhood, 174 feet deep at a price so that a 54 foot lot will cost the buyer only $160. Five $1,000 houses can be built on this lot and the total cost of each would be only $1160. They will rent for $15 per month each.

North St. Andrews street, is the logical, and in fact the only street remaining for business development. It is the thoroughfare between the two depots and has no expensive homes to move when it becomes necessary to use the space for business property. The business section can grow only in that direction. Property has advanced rapidly on this street in the past two years and is still rising. We have for sale within a block of the new post office two choice lots, that will sell for $1500 more than our price within twelve months. See us about them quick.

DO YOU KNOW?

—Not only are aluminum wires for the transmission of electricity cheaper than copper, but they shed water more readily and are less liable to damage by sleet-storms.

—A commission appointed by five of the larger German states has adopted a standard system of shorthand for use in those states.

—Experiments with thousands of subjects have shown that the average man attains his maximum of strength in the 31st year.

—By a fortunate accident in a London hospital recently it was discovered that certain forms of deafness could be cured by the X-rays.

—Ten parts of slacked lime to one of hydraulic cement, mixed with salt water, makes a white-wash that will not easily wash or rub off.

—The last international Geological Congress estimated the world's supply of iron ore at 22,498,000,000 tons, of which 12,032,000,000 tons are in America.

—English scientists have perfected a new process of extracting radium from pitch-blende by means of which more radium can be produced in two months than in one year by the Austrian method.

—Germany, Holland, France, Belgium and Austria-Hungary, in the order named, follow the United States in the consumption of coffee.

—Aluminum derives its name from the word "alumen," given by early scientists to earthy substances which they could not otherwise identify.

WAR ON THE DRUG HABIT.

Through the effectual efforts of the United States there appears, at last, a rift in the clouds which concealed all hope of defeating the sale of opium in China, and of other dangerous drugs which are yearly ruining the lives of many people.

China has struggled helplessly and hopelessly against a most insurmountable odds. Strange as it may seem, England, the great nation of Christian people, has opposed the possible abolition of the nefarious traffic.

There is a simple explanation for this. The great output of Indian opium would be almost marketless. It is in India that most of the opium consumed in China is raised.

It has always been a source of rich revenue to the British people and a source of revenue to the government. The combined interests have been instrumental in defeating the crusade which was started years ago.

England has with much justice pointed to the United States in return, and asked if it was unlawful and unjust to sell to the Chinese opium, why it was the United States sold to the American people cocaine and morphine.

Before an answer could be framed it was necessary to bring the lesson home. The vigorous efforts to abolish the sale of both has had its effect.

On May first the nations of the world will meet at The Hague and there the war will be waged in earnest.

China's efforts to suppress the sale of opium in the empire was in inaugurated as far back as 1796. In 1839 England sent armed ships into the Chinese waters. At the gun's point England compelled the Celestial government to receive the imported opium, for the export opium trade, even then, amounted to about $3,000,000. For a year China resisted, but was defeated. The end seems in sight at last.

The purpose of The Hague meeting will extend further than this. The delegates will seek to secure a treaty regulating the sale of, not only opium, but morphine and cocaine, which do as much harm, if not more, than that of opium in the empire.

The sale of all three drugs is necessary, but the sale should be restricted for medical purposes only.

The ravages of the cocaine and morphine habit, in this country, are but dimly comprehended.

It has been shown that 5,000 ounces of cocaine would not meet all medical demands. According to Secretary Klock, 180,000 ounces were imported last year alone, and the manufacture of morphine has become almost an American monopoly.

The Low C.

Londoners, as the Rev. P. H. Ditchfield recalls in "The Parson's Plea-ance," are very keen on choir singing. "A doctor in the duchy was driving over a bridge that spanned a deep brook and saw a man standing up to his waist in the water. 'Whatever are you doing there, John?' he shouted to the man. 'Ah, weel, doctor, you see, I've got to sing bass in 'Andel's 'Messiah,' and I never can get down to that lower C unless I've got a cold, so I'm catching one.'"

Viewpoint of Office Boy.

"Is the editor in?" asked the man with the unbarbered hair and shiny coat as he fished a roll of paper from his pocket.

"No," replied the office boy. "He has just gone out."

"This is the third time I've called to see him," growled the caller, "and each time you have told me he has just gone out. What's the explanation?"

"I don't know," answered the o. b., "but I guess he must have been born under a lucky star."—Chicago.

CRADLED IN ICE.

A Schooner's Thrilling Game of Saw in Arctic Waters.

The schooner Elwood, while on a fishing cruise in northern waters, once had a strange adventure with an iceberg. It appears that the master sighted the iceberg, an immense one, apparently fast on a reef just off Hoonia. It seemed a lucky encounter, inasmuch as the captain figured that he might fill his hold with ice to preserve the fish he expected to catch.

When the schooner was within a few yards of the iceberg the anchor was dropped. The vessel swung around until she came alongside, to which she was made fast by lines. The tide was at the full. A gang-plank was thrown over the ledge in the ice, and the men began breaking off chunks of the ice and hoisting them aboard. All went well until evening, when thirty tons of ice had been stowed in the hold.

Meanwhile the falling tide had caused the iceberg to settle upon the reef and to tip toward the side opposite the vessel. The gangplank rose in the air and had to be made fast to a ledge nearer the water to keep it horizontal.

The master, suspecting that all was not going to be well, ordered the crew to make sail. Before they could man the balyards the iceberg, with a grinding roar, rolled off the reef and started to turn over.

A jagged spur of ice, which had formed the bottom of the iceberg, arose on the starboard side of the vessel and beneath it. The ice struck the keel, and the vessel, lifted out of the water, rested in an ice cradle. The captain ordered his men to get into the boats and out of harm's way. Cutting the lines that held the schooner to the iceberg, the men pulled to a safe distance and waited.

The anchor held fast, and the schooner tugged at the chain. The tide dropped a few more inches, the iceberg careened still farther, and the Elwood rose higher. This proved the schooner's salvation.

The tendency of the iceberg to roll over and raise the vessel brought such an enormous strain upon the anchor chain that something had to give way. Something did, and, to the joy of the fishermen, it was not the anchor or the chain.

The iceberg lurched, and the schooner was seen to slide several feet along the crevice in which it rested. There was another lurch and another slide. Then the vessel reached a downward grade and the next instant shot off the iceberg and into the sea, bow on, like a rocket.

She shipped a heavy sea as the result of plunging her nose beneath the surface, but quickly righted and, after stumbling over her anchor chain and tugging viciously to get away, settled down to her original state of tranquillity, to all appearances unhurt.—Chicago Record-Herald

AT THE ELITE

"The Music Hall Girl," presented last night at the Elite by the Raymond N. Harris Company was one of the best attractions that ever visited this city. There were only a few people present to enjoy the occasion, but the applause given the actors sounded like a full house.

The actors each deserve special praise for the way in which they presented the novelty attraction. Several times the players, refusing to repeat, were unable to proceed with the play on account of the loud applause of the audience.

The management of the theatre is highly pleased with the way the attraction pleased the crowd and regrets that more Dothan showgoers did not take advantage of the opportunity offered of seeing one of the funniest and most enjoyable attractions ever presented in this city.
